MODULE 1 — Description Area:

The Antonio Giuliani DN-5 Acoustic Dreadnought Guitar is perfect for players of all levels. Dreadnought style guitars feature a larger body that provides a bold, rich, and loud tone. The solid cedar top gives the instrument unmatched quality and richness of sound. It has laminated ribbon mahogany back and sides.

The nut and saddle are genuine bone for the highest quality sound and response. The saddle is compensated for accurate intonation. Saddles are accurately shaped, height-adjusted, and sanded for optimum playability. This guitar has a solid rosewood bridge and beautiful abalone inlay on the bridge pins. The highly stable 5-piece neck displays inlaid side position markers and mother of pearl fretboard markers. It also features a solid rosewood fretboard.

The body is fully bound both front and back. The headstock and fingerboard are fully bound as well. The inside of the body is constructed with x-bracing to ensure a sturdy and responsive instrument, and notched kerfing to keep the body light.

Every guitar is set up with high-quality D'Addario XT steel strings. 25.5"scale length.

Quality construction at a great value!

The Features of the Antonio Giuliani DN-5 Dreadnought Acoustic Guitar

All Giuliani guitars are constructed with dual-action truss rods. These provide the ability to adjust the guitar between light, medium or heavy tension string sets, and do not require seasonal adjustment like traditional compression truss rods. This flexibility in adjustment also reduces the acclimation period when the instrument is moved to different climates.

- 5-Piece mahogany neck with ebony stringers and satin finish. Solid rosewood bridge, fingerboard, and headstock overlay.
- Solid cedar top; beautiful, laminated mahogany, back, and sides.
- 20 medium frets. Sealed tuners.
- Fully bound top, back, headstock, and fingerboard. Mother of pearl fretboard position markers, "Chevron" rosette.
- Volute for headstock reinforcement.
- Pre-installed strap buttons.
- Compensated bridge saddle for correct intonation.
- Dual-action truss rod, X-braced.
